

Problem Statement

While there is a way to upload apps to the apple app store, the process is slow, and there can be problems that arise with it.

Details

Apple has barriers put in place that prevents easy installation of custom software on iphones. Through a third party app store, software distribution can be quick and seamless.